Prospects of North Idaho

The following article is from the Lewiston Journal of the 22d ult

It is problematical what will be the nature and extent of the business of North Idaho the ensuing season Hopes are bright which have been induced by the development of new sources of wealth during the summer past We can easily promise the character of the placer mining of the camps east of this place during the coming summer months The heavy body of snow which has fallen during the few weeks past, furnishes a guaranty of an abundance of water for mining purposes The snows having fallen so late in the season, forbodes a late opening of the camps, unless the weather should become suddenly warm—and rains should be abundant, and in that event we may expect very high water in all the streams—and in some cases, those high waters would be likely to inundate much mining ground, and prevent early mining There is one thing favorable for these camps—nearly all of them have an abundance of supplies on them to subsist all who will go there early; till the trails are well opened for pack trains—so that no miner need feel concerned about getting his grub, should he early return to his diggings over the snow

If there is any change in the placer mining of these camps the coming season, the prospect is favorable for a large increase of the claims worked over the number of those worked last year We know of no contemplated abatement, and we do know of many new claims which will be worked, and we know of several upon which the appliances for mining will be much more expensive and systematic than at any former time, and we believe with a reasonable assurance of success

Florence, during the early part of the season, while the water is abundant, will be extensively worked and with good facilities.

Warrens will also be more lively than last year. Most of the old Warren's men will return, a great majority of them have quartz interests which will require their presence to protect and duly represent, and the knowledge of these quartz veins having been disseminated in towns below during the past winter, will attract many others there How many, can only be estimated, as the season advances One thing is sure, that over five thousand quartz claims will have to be represented in the Warren district, with the labor of twenty dollars upon each before next October, or they will be forfeited under the laws of the district This will require at least $25,000 expenditure in labor upon the quartz veins alone All this must be done even if no quartz mill is placed there

But should some man or company of men be induced to put a quartz mill there, of capacity to reduce ten tons of ore per day, the enterprise would stimulate hundreds of owners of claims, to open their claims and extract ore for reduction, and we have no hesitation in saying—that, were it now generally known among the holders of quartz there, that the means of reducing one hundred tons of ore per day after the first day of July next, would be available to them there—that amount of rock would be extracted and deposited at the mills from that time forward till the first of November Our personal knowledge of the veins in that camp—their situation for rendering extract easy—the character of the ore which the veins produce, assure us that our estimate is less than what would be actually furnished to mills in that camp—could the holders of quartz now have the assurance that they could get their ores reduced. These holders are almost without exception, men capable themselves of the manual labor necessary to do all the work required on the veins, and in packing the ores to the mills—and their ability to labor is almost their own capital. Many of these laborers are well skilled in all branches of mining, and some of them are expert in tunneling, drifting and sinking shafts, and extracting ores. But to give incentive to the full development of all this labor, the means of reducing the ores they extract must be furnished to the camp by capital from abroad. Each, and every man of them, will hazard his whole summer's labor upon these veins to develop them, if others will hazard sufficient to place the means for reducing the ores his labor produces within his reach, and will take his pay out of the yield of these ores after the cost of reducing them has been deducted

Is it reasonable to suppose, that four or five hundred miners, composed of various grades of skill, from the highest downwards, and experienced in nearly all the mining camps on this coast, would all have, and express so much confidence in the richness of this camp, as to hazard a summer's work upon the conditions we have named, if they were not earnest in their faith? And can it be possible that such a number of practical miners, who know from personal observation the character of these quartz veins—can all be, themselves deceived? To say, or suppose they are deceived, would be contrary to all rules adopted by reasonable men A few men may seek to humbug the many, but four or five hundred men who know the facts, never seek to humbug the few capitalists whose aid they seek to enable them to uncover the wealth to enrich all men alike

But leaving Warrens with the confident hope, that the coming season will witness quartz machinery in operation there—such as to enliven and enrich the camp beyond any former period, we will glance at Elk City

The deep diggings of this camp has caused heretofore a heavy outlay of capital, and several of the companies who have for years been employed in tunneling and opening claims, have become involved in debt thereby Most of these during the past season succeeded in paying off their indebtedness, and they will enter upon the coming mining season with the best of hopes and prospects. The value of the camp is now abundant and cheap, and their facilities for mining were never more complete It is reasonable to expect very large returns from the placers in that camp the ensuing season.

Again they have three or four quartz veins discovered there, which will compare well with those to other camps—and we are advised that an effort will early be made to place one or two mills upon them the coming season. Should these efforts succeed, much more may be expected from that camp, than what is at present produced from the placers

Oro Fino will employ the labor of about one thousand Chinese the ensuing season—the products of whose labor if as great in proportion to the number employed last year, will not be less than a million of dollars

The Palouse mines and Gnat creek mines will employ some two or three hundred men at fair wages during the early part of the season

Kootenai will also produce considerable gold which will drift in that direction So will Blackfoot and Lemhi

Altogether, the prospects are more favorable than at any time before, since 1862, when Florence was in its glory

THE LAST OF A GLORIOUS BAND.—The N Y Times of Feb 20th, says

A telegram was received yesterday in Congress, announcing the death, at Ldinburg, Saratoga county, New York, of Samuel Downing, the last surviving soldier who was actually under arms in the war of the Revolution Downing's age has been stated at from one hundred to one hundred and six, but we are not able to determine the precise figure He enlisted in New Hampshire near the close of the war, and after peace found his way to New York, in which State he lived for more than half a century There have been a dozen or more of "last of pensioners," but we presume that the decease of this well known citizen closes the list, and there is not now a man living who actually bore arms in our great struggle for liberty Sixty seven years have gone by since Washington died and he was almost the first (not slain in battle) to lead the long array of glorious patriots whose line is finished by the departure of Samuel Downing

AN INSTANCE OF PERSEVERANCE.—One morning during the late war an officer, riding through the woods of North Alabama, was attracted by a tall lank country man, who seemed to be using the best of his endeavors to reach the top of a large hickory tree hearcely had he gained the summit when rapidly descending, he started up another a few yards off This strange proceeding was continued at least a dozen times the countryman climbing and descending one tree after another for nearly a quarter of a mile The officer at length, overtaking him, inquired the cause of his eccentric gyrations I was lyin' asleep under yon hickory, when a darned squirrel dropped a shell bark into my eye; I'm goin' to worry him, I'm goin to worry him till he leaves the settlement, if I die in the attempt.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO APRIL 3.

Washington News.

CHICAGO, April 1.—The Republican says the first business of the Supreme Court is the election of a Chief Justice Richard Parsons, of Cleveland Ohio will undoubtedly be elected

The Russian treaty will probably go over to the next session None of the members press it for ratification

Sixty postoffices are without proprietors and vacancies

The papers for the pardon of the Jaynes family of the president Congress will be selected about the middle of the present month Two will be chosen for each State upon the recommendation of the Republican delegation in the House.

The Judiciary Committee of the House will continue in session during the present week and adjourn till the 1st of May

The Senate Judiciary Committee will probably not report in favor of holding Jeff Davis Chief Justice Chase has not yet decided when, if at all he will try him Horace Greeley arrived to day to urge the President to release Jeff Davis

Assistant Secretary Chandler is not a candidate for a foreign mission He will remain in the Treasury Department.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The Tribune says Congress passed 20 bills and 27 joint resolutions, all of which were approved by the President, except the supplemental reconstruction bill

The point at issue in the Union Pacific Railroad controversy is understood to be the report on possession of the roads and working stock (?)

The Lincoln Monument Association has organized with Senator Harlan as President. Prod Douglass is one of the Directors Postmasters throughout the country are appointed agents to solicit contributions

It is rumored that the Governor of Delaware will appoint Thos A Bayard, son of a former Senator, James A Bayard, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Senator Riddle There is trading on a great scale between Senators and Representatives and the President Many who voted against impeachment are being rewarded Some cases have been consummated It is demanded that Senators shall agree to confirm one Johnson man to every Republican Some of the bargains are utterly disgraceful

The Times says the Supreme Court meets to-day There were only five cases on docket before adjournment

The report of the officers of the President's Bureau in Mississippi, for February, shows that 1,500 freed people in that State were registered Better wages are offered There is some destitution among the freedmen The most alarming suffering is among the white population in the face The schools are flourishing and are well sustained. There is no opposition among the intelligent classes to the education of the freedmen Many planters have supplied the teachers with the necessary school buildings

WASHINGTON, April 2.—In the Senate Johnson, of Maryland, upon a question of privilege, defended Phillip F Thomas Senator elect from Maryland, against the charge that while Secretary of the Treasury he filled an office for the purpose of the interest of the public debt On January, 1861, and caused a long letter from Thomas to be read vindicating his loyalty and showing that he did make such proviso The letter was referred to the Judiciary Committee The Senate then went into executive session

Sot Meredith of Indiana, has been nominated for Surveyor General of Montana

McCulloch says if Congress will let him alone he will bring gold down to 25 or 23 by next December without making a stringent money market It is believed that specie payment will be resumed within two years with out trouble to business

Sumner intend to test the constitutionality of the military reconstruction law and to ask an injunction upon Gen Pope and Andrew Johnson to restrain them from enforcing them Recently Johnson is of opinion that the case must come up in a lower tribunal before the Supreme Court can take cognizance of it. It will probably come up through the District Court of Alexandria Seven Southern Governors will consent to any proceedings to test the constitutionality of the act. Gov. Patton, of Alabama, declines to favor the extension of the law

NEW YORK, April 1.—The Post says that Butler's charge that the President pardoned deserters to vote the Democratic ticket, is pronounced as false by Department officers. The election took place a month before their release

The Times says the diary found on the body of Wilkes Booth, will be given to the public in a few days. Judge Holt has testified that the book has not been mutilated since coming into his possession It commences April 14th and states that on that day Booth sent a communication to the National Intelligencer stating the intention of himself and Confederates The remainder of the diary consists of a glorification of himself and a denunciation of his victims. Holt further testifies that in his opinion, the diary sheds no light on the case, and it was not delivered proper to offer it in evidence The editor of the Intelligencer never read the letter

Reverdy Johnson and a number of the leading Radicals favor the Russian treaty on account of its great commercial advantages It is conceded that its fate is doubtful because of the prejudice against Seward's diplomacy.

CHICAGO, April 2.—The Republican says In the Senate executive session a long debate occurred in regard to the rules that should govern confirmations Some Republicans were disposed to be conservative and are anxious to get home They favor the confirmation of anybody who has borne a good character and is comparatively sound and really not obnoxious Others favor rejecting all Democrats and Johnson Republicans. The President will thus be compelled to nominate capable Republicans. It was finally agreed that each Senator should cast on his own free choice Some further colloquies occurred, but owing to the injunction of secrecy it is impossible to give the particulars The Senate adjourned after having made little progress. A motion to remove the injunction of the Secretary was not acted upon

The Supreme Court will not entertain any question to test the constitutionality of the Reconstruction Act at the present session.

The Judiciary Committee have examined several witnesses on Impeachment Nothing now elicited

The President will probably nominate L. Foster of Connecticut Minister to Austria

Only seven members of the Supreme Court were present to-day and no election of U. S. Marshal

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The President sent in a large number of nominations to day The Senate rejected Kennedy, nominated for Commissioner of Agriculture

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, APRIL 4, 1867.

Pap Patriots in Trouble.

The Johnson renegades who betrayed Maryland into the hands of the returned rebels are reaping the just reward of their criminal treachery. Now that the rebels have been restored to power in that State they coolly turn and inform the clique of bread-and butter hunters that their leadership is no longer required, and that they themselves, will take charge of the affairs of Maryland. These apostates are now in the greatest perplexity and distress as they see the power slipping from their hands. They supposed that they would be favored with the perpetual enjoyment of office, while their returned Confederate friends would be satisfied with merely doing the voting. But their happy dream has been suddenly dispelled by the avowed determination of the rebels to turn out of office the deserters from the Union party and hold the offices themselves. There was a registry law in Maryland that excluded the rebels, but Gov. Swan and his accomplices in the hope of perpetuating their own power set this aside and let the rebels in. And now when the Confederates have regained their "rights" and declared their intention of no longer following the lead of the renegades, the latter profess the utmost astonishment and alarm at this piece of audacity, and piteously beg to be reconstructed friends not to throw them overboard. But this has already been done in Baltimore, and the apostates find their candidate for Mayor and Councilmen beaten in the fight for nominations by original secessionists and thorough rebels. A similar movement is in progress throughout the whole State, and after the next election the rebels will have everything in their own hands. This prospect forces a cry of agony from the Commercial, the organ of the deserters,—which paper reproaches its late very dear friends, the returned rebels, for their ingratitude, and tells them that since the franchise has been restored to them, "they should have done all for the present nothing more." It is ludicrous to witness the distress into which the selfishness of these men has led them. The very means which the loyalists of Maryland foretold would appear. The renegades have dis- that there is at least one item not named by them in his enumeration of the various ways in which it would be folly to confide in—and that is a rebel's gratitude. There is no more exquisite than that of seeing men of this description brought under the domination of the rebels.

At Last.

When we read the news of the Connecticut election our first thought was very like a little wish that we were for a moment a Confederate State, so that we could exult over the "glorious victory" there at last is a little oasis in the desert of "Abolitionism." The Democratic heart, however, now exultath. They have carried the State by the magnificent majority of 7000 votes. And a New England State, too! They will have kind words hereafter for the land of the Pilgrims.

The result in Connecticut will surprise no one who has taken into consideration the condition of parties in that State and the influences that were operating to aid the Democrats. English is personally popular, he was anti-slavery man during the war, and voted in Congress to propose to the States the amendment abolishing slavery. His election by the whole patronage of the President and by all the influences exerted through the departments. Last year the State gave Seymour, the Republican carrying it by 541 majority. This year the party boldly pronounced for the disfranchisement of the colored citizens of the State. The Democrats made their principal fight upon this proposition, and have carried the State by only a few hundred votes. Under all these circumstances their success is therefore not to be wondered at. A change of 500 votes in a total poll of 90,000 is not an unusual or an alarming matter. But still it is a Democratic victory, and as it is the first that party has achieved without the memory, they ought to be allowed full liberty for glorification.

"Treason Vanity."—The editor of the "Review" is very clear, is fully determined that Democratic modesty shall not be suffered to injure the Democratic cause, or interfere in any way with the objects of his ambition. He aspires to be the principal leader of his party in Oregon, and to the best of others may, and generally do, accept his pretensions to be considered as such, but his assurance does not for a moment forsake him. His motto is that "brass" is the best metal, and that "cheek" is a great matter. Such is the structure of his mind that he makes his own self his constant minister to his vanity, and constantly points to the contemptuous treatment he has received as proof that he is held in high esteem by the party with which he is associated. We mentioned the other day that he and the "organ" have been repudiated by the entire press of the State, and that no man of that party recognizes his authority or leadership for the Democracy. The truth of this he is obliged to acknowledge; but like Hough, when some one called him an ass, he considers it a compliment, and thinks it "convincing proof that he is on the right track!" Here's success to the pool. This conduct of his in assuming to be the "big chief" of his party after he has been disowned by all who for years have been accustomed to speak for the organization, is doubtless what the Review refers to when it speaks of the "puny despotisms of dotage" which, as it says, characterize his course. He is not to be disconcerted by the simple fact that his party have repudiated him; he claims to be wiser than the whole of them, and points to their disasters as proof that he is right. But notwithstanding his vanity, the fact remains that he has no influence with his party than the merest nobody, and that he is classed by the acknowledged leaders of that organization among the cranks and renegades who are neither trusted or respected.

The Canal System.—Frequent mention has been made in the dispatches of late of the action of the Boards of Trade in various cities in regard to the canal system. This system was in use for a time at the principal grain markets, and was intended to substitute sales by the one hundred pound in place of sales by the bushel. It was expected to greatly simplify the trade; but some of the cities and railroad companies refused to adopt it, and it is stated that the system of bushels has again been resumed. It is obvious enough that for the purposes of a great trade the canal system was altogether the more convenient method of the two.

The Manufacture of Money.—The New York Evening Gazette of a recent date, gives the following interesting item:

In one thing, at least, the Americans have outstripped the rest of the world, and that is in the manufacture of paper money. The artistic and mechanical skill which is lavished upon our notes exceed that of any other country on the face of the globe—the bank notes of England and France are rude in comparison. Strange as it may seem, the finest and best steel engraving is done in the city of New York, and for specimens exhibited the American Bank Note Company took the first premium at the World's Fair, held in London. As a reward for their triumph of skill and art, it may almost be said with truth that the city of New York, through this one establishment, furnishes the whole world with her bank notes. Greece, Italy, Russia and the British Provinces, Brazil, Nicaragua, and South American Republics, too numerous to mention, with Mexico and the United States, send their orders to this establishment, receiving in return money which compounds itself for its exceeding beauty. The Italian order for money, next to that of the United States, is the largest one ever executed. Some idea of its size may be formed when it is stated that one hundred and twenty thousand sheets, containing twenty five notes each, are sent off each week!

Rev. A. B. Earle and his Labors.

It is with gratitude to God that we subscribers commend this christian brother to all the followers of our Lord Jesus Christ, in Oregon and the adjacent territories. He has come to the Pacific coast at the written and earnest solicitation of the San Francisco Monitorial Union, having been well known to some of them personally, and to others by reputation as a most faithful, true and successful laborer in the vineyard of our Lord and Master. We also know of his acceptable labors among our brethren in the Eastern, Middle and Western States. We also rejoice to testify to his fervent and humble piety, to his hearty union by faith to Christ, to his fellowship in the Spirit, enabling him to preach the Word with fullness, and to win sinners to the paths of Righteousness and Salvation. God has honored his labors among us from the first day until now, and the work of salvation goes on with increasing depth and power. The brethren of all our churches are greatly revived and remarkably united in love and devotion, with manifest tokens of the increase of faith, humility, zeal, meekness and courage. It is our prayer that God will continue to guide, to strengthen and to endow this brother with the Holy Spirit, and abundantly bless his labors here and elsewhere in the State. Signed

"The American Conflict."—The author of this great work publishes the following note:

The publishers of my history of the late civil war authorize me to give public notice that they will hereafter be prepared to fill promptly every order from their canvassing agents for any style of this work, and that the delivery of Vol II to the press—far too long delayed—will commence forthwith and be vigorously prosecuted till complete. Their excuse for the delay is the pressure of orders from agents who were most urgent in their requisitions to be supplied immediately, and this was constant up to the time that travel was quite generally obstructed by the great snows of this severe winter. Vol. II was first issued about September 1st; and, up to January 1st of this year 48,026 copies thereof had been printed, bound, boxed and sent off, along with several thousand copies of Vol. I, raising the total sale of that volume to 122,327 copies. Considering that the work forms two large octavos of over 1,400 pages, illustrated by many engravings on wood and steel, with a large map of the seat of war, the celerity wherewith so large an edition was issued has seldom been exceeded.

I have just revised the work, making a good many verbal and two or three important corrections; and I solicit further information from those who may detect errors, however trivial. My judgment may in some instances be mistaken; but, if so, I mean to supply the reader with the means of revising them.

The necessity of raising the price after many subscribers had been obtained has been the only source of dissatisfaction in any quarter. Though this is a matter over which I have no control, I beg the patrons of The Conflict to compare what was promised in the original prospectus with what has actually been performed, and judge whether the publishers have not fairly earned all they ask.

OREGON

IRON WORKS,

Corner Morrison and Seventh Sts.,

PORTLAND, OREGON.

THIS COMPANY HAVING GREATLY enlarged their Reducing Works, and introduced many other important improvements, are pleased to announce that they feel warranted in again reducing materially their terms of doing business.

THE TARIFF OF CHARGES

Which they now submit to the public considered with reference to the cost of materials and labor—is lower than in any other part of the world, and inspires to the mining interest of this coast an important increase in both the mining and commercial value of bullion.

Their charges hereafter will be as follows:

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNITED STATES GOLD BARS.

One-eighth of one per cent. (but not less than a quarter) for all amounts over $1,500, and two dollars for any smaller sum. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR ASSAYING DEPOSITS FOR UNITED STATES SILVER BARS.

Two dollars for the gold contained, up to $1,000, and one-eighth of one per cent. for all amounts over that sum, and one per cent on the silver contained. Returns made in twenty-four hours.

FOR REFINING DEPOSITS MADE FOR COIN OR FINE BARS.

On bullion under 300 parts gold, 2 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 300 @ 600 parts gold, 4 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 600 @ 750 parts gold, 5 cents per ounce.
On bullion from 750 @ 940½ parts gold, 6 cents per ounce.

Above 950 the only charge will be for coinage. But there will be no charge for refining less than two dollars.

FOR COINING GOLD.

This charge will be the same as at the Mint a half of one per cent.—and which is paid by us to that institution. But there will be no charge in future for making fine gold or silver bars from bullion refined by us.

RETURNS IN COIN IN FORTY-EIGHT HOURS.

Silver contained in deposits for coin will be accounted for at the same rate customary at the Mint.

Gold bars of other Assayers, in good standing, will be cashed by us at the highest market rates.

Dust and bullion can be forwarded to us from any part of the country, and returns made through Wells, Fargo & Co's Express.

CHARGES AT U. S. BRANCH MINT.

For the convenience of those not familiar with the terms of the Mint, we subjoin the tariff of charges now in force at that institution:

For refining bullion under 300 parts gold, 8 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 300 @ 600 parts gold, 5 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 600 @ 750 parts gold, 7 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 750 @ 830 parts gold, 11 cents per ounce.

For refining bullion from 830 @ 940½ parts gold, 14 cents per ounce.

The charge for coinage is half of one per cent., and the charge for making fine silver bars, the same.

Comparing the net value of deposits for coinage, with the proceeds of unparted gold bars sold in the market—assuming that the bars have cost ½ of one per cent.—they must be sold at the following par rates to equal the return which would have been made had they been deposited for coinage:

.850 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.

.845 par to equal Mint return, at refining charge of 14 cents.

.855 par to equal San Francisco A. & R. Works return, at refining charge of 8 cents.

A VALUABLE INVENTION.

THE UNDERSIGNED CALLS THE ATTENTION of smokers to the celebrated

PATENT DOUBLE-TUBE PIPES

Which he is now importing, and which are recommended to all smokers. Its peculiar merit consists in the use of TWO TUBES, the one for the smoke alone and the other for the passage of the saliva and the nicotine to the cup at the bottom, whence it is discharged. The smoke being thus kept clear of contact with the saliva, is always delicious and pure in its odor, and the collected matter which renders all other pipes offensive being entirely removed, the pipe will always continue sweet and agreeable. It gives to the smoke the pure exhilaration of the tobacco free from its noxious nicotine, it possesses merits never before obtained in pipes.

A leading eastern journal says of this pipe: "Its merits are incontestably proved by the fact that it is permanently superseding all others in use."

Another great advantage in this pipe is that the smoker can easily take it to pieces if the draught becomes obstructed you can withdraw the stem and re-open the upper tube of the bowl without emptying it of tobacco.

COMMON FLOUR IN NEW YORK.—The following quotation from the telegraphic news of yesterday morning, dated from the telegraphic news of yesterday morning, dated from San Francisco:" "A private telegram received from New York Saturday states that Imperial Oregon flour was selling in that city at $16, and that the entire invoice of 2,000 barrels would be easily closed out at that figure. Whip him for his Mother.

Let me whip him for his mother,
He is such a naughty boy;
He baby tried to smother,
And he's broken Emma's toy.
Of the doll I gave to Ellen
He has melted off the nose,
And there really is no telling
To what length his mischief goes

Last night he put a cracker
'Neath his aunt Jemima's chair,
And he told me such a whacker
When I asked how it came there.
Then when poor old Mrs Toodles
Was just starting off by rail,
He tied her two fat poodles
Most together by the tail!

It really is quite shocking
How one's nerves he daily jars,
He puts pins in one's stocking
And Cayenne in one's cigars
You may guess that many another
Boyish tricks he's daily at,
So I'll whip him for his mother,
As a thrasher little brat.

The Parks of Colorado.

[From the Washington Chronicle]

The San Luis park is readily entered at the extreme north through the Poncho Pass, penetrating the Cordilleras from the Arkansas river. This park, of illiptical form and immense dimensions, is enveloped between the Cordilleras and Sierra Mimbres. It has its extreme northern point between these two Sierras where they separate by a sharp angle and diverge—the former to the southeast; the latter to the southwest. The latitude of the Poncho Pass is 38 degrees 30 minutes, the longitude 106 degrees. It is 155 miles southwest of Denver and 37 miles due west from Canyon City.

Emerging from the Poncho Pass, the waters begin to gather and form the San Luis river. This flows to the south through a valley of great beauty, which rapidly widens to the right and left. On the east flank, the Cordilleras ascends abruptly and continuously, without any foot-hills, to a sharp snowy summit; on the west, foot-hills and secondary mountains, rising one over the other, entangle the whole space of the Sierra Mimbres.

The Sawatch river has its sources on the inner (eastern) flank of the Sierra Mimbres, about sixty miles south of its angle of divergence from the Cordilleras, and by a course nearly east, converges toward the lower San Luis river. It enters upon the park by a similar valley. These two valleys expand into one another around this mass of foot-hills, fusing into the open park, whose centre is here occupied by the San Luis lake, into which the two rivers converge and discharge their waters.

The San Luis lake, extending south from the point of the foot-hills, occupies the center of the park for sixty miles; forming a bowl with at any point its waters. It is surrounded by immense saturated savannas of luxuriant grass. Its water surface expands over this savanna during the season of the melting snows on the Sierras and shrunk when the season of evaporation returns. From the flanks of the Cordilleras on the east, at intervals of six or eight miles asunder, and at very equal distances, fourteen streams other than the San Luis, descend and converge into the San Luis lake. The belt of sloping plain, between the savannas and the lake, traversed by so many perfect streams, bordered by meadows and groves of cottonwood trees, has from this feature the name of "Los Alamos." It is sixty miles in length and twenty wide. On the opposite (western) side, on the flank of the Sierra mombres, similar streams descend from the west into the lake known as the Sawatch, the Carnero and the Garota.

The confluent streams thus converging into the San Luis lake are nineteen in number. The area thus occupied by this isolated lake and drained floor it by its converging affluents, forming distinctly the northern section of the park, and being one third of its whole surface, is classified under the general name of "Rincon."

Advancing onward to the south, along the west edge of the plains, ten miles from the Garota, the Rio del Norte river issues from its mountain gorge. Its source is in the perpetual snows of the top of San Juan, the local name given to this range of dome culminations of the Sierra Mimbres. The Del Norte flows from its extreme source due west one hundred and fifty miles, and having reached the longitudinal middle of the park turns to the south, and bisecting the park for perhaps one hundred and fifty miles passes beyond its limits in its course to the Gulf of Mexico. All the streams descending from the enveloping Sierras (other than the Alamosas) converge into it by tributary waters. On the west come in successively the Pinada, the Rio del Gata, the Rio de la Gara, the Conejos, the San Antonio, and the Pinda. These streams, six or eight miles apart, parallel, equi-distant, fed by the snows of the Sierra Mimbres, have abundant waters, very fertile areas of land, and are all of the very highest order of beauty.

Advancing again from the Rincon, at the eastern edge of the plain along the base of the Cordilleras, the prodigious conical mass of the Sierra Blanca protrudes like a vast hemisphere into the plain and blocks the vision to the direct south. The road describes the arc of a semi-circle around the base for thirty miles, and reaches Fort Garland.

In the immediate vicinity of Fort Garland, the three large streams, the Yuta, Sangre de Christo and the Trenchera, descend from the Cordilleras, converge, unite a few miles west, and blending with the waters in the Trenchera, flow west for twenty-four miles into the Rio del Norte. The line of the snowy Sierra Blanca, here again reveals itself pursuing its regular south southwest course and direction. Fourteen miles south is reached the town of San Luis, upon the Culebra river; seven miles further is the town of Costills, upon the Costilla river; fifteen miles farther the town of Rito Colorado is reached; eighteen miles onward is the Arroyo Hondo; (between these is the San Cristoro,) from the Arroyo Hondo to the Taos is fourteen miles; twenty miles beyond Taos is the mountain chain, whose circle toward the west forms the southern mountain barrier which incloses the San Luis park in that direction.

The San Luis park is then an immense elliptical bowl, the bed of a primeval sea which has been drained of, its bottom, as smooth as a water surface and concave, is 9,440 square miles in area. It is watered by thirty-five mountain streams, which, flowing from the encircling crest of snow, converge, almost, into the San Luis lake, the rest into the Rio del Norte. An extraordinary symmetry of configuration is its prominent feature. The scenery, everywhere sublime, and the ever changing variety of the kaleidoscope. Entirely around the edge of the plain, and closing the junction of the plain with the mountain foot, runs a smooth glacis, exactly resembling the sea beach, which accompanies the conjunction of the land with the ocean. From this beach rise continuously all around the horizon the great mountains, elevating their heads above the line of perpetual snow. On the eastern side, the escarpment of the Cordilleras rises rapidly, and is abrupt, on the western side, the crest of the Sierra Mimbres is more remote, having the interval filled with ridges, lessening in altitude as they descend to the plain of the park. This continuous shelving back of the Sierras, completing a perfect amphitheatre, has a superficial area equal to that of the level plain which it envelops, and gives to the whole [illegible] leagues within the encircling band of snow an area of 18,000 square miles. At an elevation of five or six thousand feet above the plain a level line upon the mountain wall marks the cessation of arborescence, above which naked granite and snow alone are seen. To one who ascends to this elevation at any point the whole interior of this prodigious amphitheatre is scanned by the eye and swept in at a glance. Aided by a glass the smallest objects scattered over the immense elliptical area beneath are discernible, through the limpid, brilliant and translucent atmosphere. Two facts impress themselves upon the sense: the perfect symmetry of the configuration in nature, and the immense variety in the forms and splendor of the landscape. The colors of the sky and atmosphere are intensely vivid and gorgeous; the dissolving tints of light and shade are forever changing; they are as infinite as the altering angles of the solar rays in his diurnal circuit.

The average elevation of the plain above the sea level is 6,400 feet. The highest peaks have an altitude of 15,000 feet above the sea. In the serrated rim of the park, as seen from the plain, projected against the canopy, are discernible saw-like peaks, at very equal distances from one another. Each one differs from all the rest in some peculiarity of shape or position. Each one identifies itself by some striking beauty. From the snows of each one descends some considerable river, as well within the peak as outward down the external mountain back.

We recognize, therefore, in the San Luis park an immense elliptical basin enveloping the sources of the Rio Bravo del Norte. It is isolated in the heart of the continent, twelve hundred miles from any sea. It is encircled, as it were, into the vast mountain bulk, where, rising gradually from the ocean, the highest altitude and amplitude of the continent is attained. This park spreads its plain from 26 deg. to 38 deg. 30 min, and is bisected by the 106th meridian. Its greatest length is 210 miles; its greatest width is 100; its aggregate approximate area is 8,000 square miles.

Such being the geographical position, altitude and peculiar unique configuration, these features suggest the inquiry into parallel peculiarities of meteorology, geology, physical structure, agriculture, mineralogy and the economy of labor.

The American people have heretofore developed their social system exclusively on the borders of the two oceans, and within the maritime valleys of moderate altitude, having navigation and an atmosphere influenced by the sea. To them, then, the contrast is complete in every feature, in those high and remote altitudes beyond the influence of the ocean, and specially continental.

There is an identity between the "Valley or Park of the City of Mexico" and the San Luis park which ought to be here mentioned. They are similar, twin basins of the great plateau, else adjoying together and alike in the physical structure of the continent. Mexico is in latitude 20°, longitude 99°, and at 7,500 feet altitude. The width of the continent is there 976 miles (from ocean to ocean), and the divergence of the Cordilleras 270 miles, which is here the width of the plateau. At the 39° the continent expands to a width of 6,500 miles between the oceans, the Cordilleras have diverged 1,200 miles asunder, and the plateau has widened the same dimensions in harmony with the great expansion of the continent are all the details of its interior structure. The "Park of the City of Mexico" is but one tenth in size and grandeur as compared and contrasted with the San Luis park. Of identical anatomy, the former is a pigmy, the latter a giant. The similitude as component parts of the mountain anatomy is in all respects absolute, as is also true of the other parks, which occupy longitudinally the centre of the State of Colorado.

A GOOD STORY TOLD BY GEN. SCHENCK.—In the course of the debate in the House of Representatives, at Washington, on the proposed bridge over the Mississippi at Clinton, Iowa, General Schenck said:

Mr. Speaker: With due thanks to my friend from Massachusetts (Mr Alley) for his courtesy in allowing me one minute of his time, I will endeavor to confine myself within that limit. This I can the easier do because I have no speech to make on either side of this question. But some gentlemen around me find it difficult to comprehend why a bill affecting the use or continuance of a bridge should give occasion to so much excited feeling and fierce discussion, and I think I can relate a little incident which may probably furnish the explanation.

Mr. Speaker, I live in the Miami Valley, that loveliest and most fertile part of all Ohio. We had a great freshet there last September. I was away from home at the time making speeches—for it was during the late political canvass—for the benefit of Copperheads in another part of the State. I witnessed, therefore, none of the ravages of the great flood, except as I saw some of the effects and traces of it after my return. But my neighbors described it to me, and of the damage to farms, crops, fences and other property, and related to me many interesting and some amusing incidents and personal adventures connected with a general calamity. A day or two after my return a friend said to me: "By the way, Schenck, the old bridge over the Miami at Hamilton was carried off." "Is that so?" I asked. "Well, besides the serious inconvenience of that loss it must have distressed our Butler county neighbors greatly, for to my certain knowledge that venerable structure has stood for fifty years, and was perhaps the oldest bridge in our valley." "You may well say that," remarked our friend. "There was excitement enough in the crowd that stood and looked on at the old thing as it was lifted from the piers and swung round and floated down stream. I was there, and saw tears almost come into Bill Beckett's eyes." (Mr. Beckett, by the way, Mr. Speaker, is as true, liberal and noble a man as ever lived, and will enjoy the story.) "This is not to be wondered at," said I; "Beckett might well be affected. He was born near by; has been familiar with the bridge always since his earliest boyhood, and must have a good many pleasant associations connected with it." "Associations, the devil," exclaimed my matter-of-fact neighbor, "why, Bill was one of the biggest stockholders in the bridge company!" [Great laughter.]

TWENTY YEARS OF CONJUGAL STRIFE.—A case has just been before our Superior Court, says the Chicago Times, which arouses recollections of Jandyce and Jandyce. It relates to a quarrel which between the husband and wife, openly, twenty years ago, and secretly, perhaps, thirty. In 1845 Oliver N. Shannon married Harriet Burden. In 1846 they separated with mutual allegations of cruelty. Evidence was introduced showing that during the five years following both parties attempted to bring about a reconciliation, but their efforts were vain; they could not agree, it would seem, upon a basis of compromise. In 1851 Shannon sued for a divorce on the ground of desertion. His wife defended the action and triumphed. In 1853 he made a similar attempt, but with no better success. Mrs. Shannon also tried her hand at divorce-getting, but she, too, failed; and it seemed as if the fates had decreed that this ill assorted couple should be forever manacled together, as a punishment for their prolonged quarrels. In 1856, Shannon being as he alleges, a citizen of the State of Indiana, famous for the facilities which it need to afford for the dissolution of unfortunate connubial compacts, procured a divorce. In February, 1866, Caroline Burden brought an action against Shannon for the sum of three thousand dollars, which, she averred, was due her for board of the defendant's wife from 1856 to the date of the writ. On the trial the other day, the defendant alleged that the suit was a groundless and vexatious one, and was brought by the plaintiff simply to annoy and put him to cost. The question of the law was whether the Indiana divorce was valid; the wife, who was evidently leagued with the sister to "bleed" the unhappy Shannon, declaring that it was fraudulent and void, and that she never lived with her husband outside the State. The Court took the question under advisement and ruled that the Indiana divorce, granted in 1856, was a bar to the plaintiff's recovery for board as charged by her from 1860 to 1866, and directed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff, however, is not discouraged, and carries the case up to the Supreme Court.

A CHINESE WEDDING.—The Nevada Transcript of March 10th has the annexed notice of a Chinese wedding in its town:

Sam, the Celestial washman of the National Exchange, was married on Thursday evening, by Justice Palmer, in true American style. Sam had a rough time of it, an attempt having been made to rob him of his bride. The maiden was taken out of the hands of her captors and lodged in the calaboose. Sam, who is somewhat Americanized, got the Justice and arranged for the ceremony to take place in the wash-house at the hotel. The guests assembled, and the maiden, arrayed in dark blue, her hair done up in tallow, and with bracelets upon her ankles, with the groom came forward. When the ceremony concluded, Sam supposed it was a case of swearing, and he raised his right hand, as is common in Court. When the bride was asked if she would "have this man," etc., she replied in trembling accents, "Me heap like Sam; him welly good Chinaman." The ceremony concluded, Sam ordered wine, and the party had a jolly time. After the wedding Sam seemed very happy, and remarked: "All a same as Mellican, heap ketchum wife all o time." In this he was mistaken, for yesterday morning his enemies had him arrested upon the charge of larceny, which is no doubt trumped up for the purpose of harassing the poor fellow.

A QUEER NOTICE READ IN CHURCH.—A minister of an Eastern village found, one Sabbath, a notice which had been cut out from a Saturday's newspaper, and placed in his desk for him to read to his congregation. But by a strange coincidence, there happened to be printed on the other side of the same slip of paper the advertisement of a certain shoe dealer, a prominent member of his church, and without turning the paper to read the other side, as the advertisement met his eye, the good man concluded it was expected he would read it, and accordingly, to the surprise of the entire congregation, announced, at the usual time for reading notices—

"George S. Brown keeps constantly on hand, and for sale, wholesale or retail, a large and well selected stock of boots and shoes, which he will sell for cash, at No. 15 Pine street."

And he added—

"Brother Brown is a worthy member of the church and society, and deserving the patronage of the congregation."

The consternation of Brother Brown may be better imagined than described.

OILING A VENTRILOQUIST.—We find a bit of quiet fun in an English paper: "A gentleman going down the river on a steamer, the engine of which was on deck, he sauntered out to see the workings of the machinery. Near him stood a man apparently bent on the same object. In a few moments a squeaking noise was heard on the opposite side of the engine. Seizing the oil can—a gigantic one by the way—the engineer sought out the dry spot, and to prevent further noise of that kind, liberally applied the contents of the can to every joint. All went on well for a while, when the squeaking was heard in another direction. The oiling process was repeated and quiet restored; but as the engineer was coming quietly toward the spot occupied by the gentleman and the stranger he heard another squeak. This time he detected the true cause of the difficulty. The stranger was a ventriloquist.

Walking straight up behind him, he seized the astonished joker by the nape of the neck and emptied the contents of the can down his back. 'There,' said he, 'I don't believe the old engine will squeak again.'"

A man in Geneva skated a mile in 2 18.

DR. HENLEY'S

Fountain of Life!

GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER!

IN EVERY PROGRESSIVE SCIENCE PERIODS ARRIVE when a new fact is imparted to its nurse. These epochs proceed from the very new facts shedding a light which changes the whole aspect of the science. The present is an epoch of intelligence, and this Great Blood Purifier, now offered to the public, in connection with the theory on which it is based, is destined to effect an entire revolution in the treatment of the diseases of

by eradicating the disease entirely from the blood. The FOUNTAIN OF LIFE is compounded entirely of vegetable extracts, it contains not Mercury or other mineral substance.

The Proprietor and Discoverer of this Sovereign Remedy CHALLENGES THE WORLD to furnish anything from the days of Esculapius down to the present time, in the arcana of Medical Science, which can vie with or excel the intrinsic properties of this Great Blood Purifier. Its value has been tested with the happiest effect in the most obstinate cases of Scrofula, that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians in the world. No matter what the dreadful disease of SCROFULA and KING'S EVIL may have assumed, it can in no way be more surely and certainly arrested in its progress than by HENLEY'S GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER. Thousands have been swept into their graves, who had they made a timely use of the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE, might now be enjoying the blessings of life and health. It regulates an action of the liver and intrinsic value to manufacture itself. During the term and duration of public experiment the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE has stood the test trial, and not been found wanting.

☞ Dr. HENLEY guarantees to CURE any case of SCROFULA or KING'S EVIL in the world, and eradicate the disease entirely from the system, or no charge made—provided they will secure him his pay when they are cured.

FOR REFERENCE:

I would refer you to L. L. Peck, of Portland, Oregon, and numbers of others, as to what a miraculous effect it had in a short time, in cases that had baffled the skill of physicians for years.

DR. G. W. BROWN

HAS located in Portland, in CARTER'S NEW BUILDING, for the permanent cure of all private diseases, such as syphilis, gonorrhea, gleet strictures &c. He also calls the attention of those suffering with

DISEASES OF THE EYES

to call at his office and be at once restored. Surgical operations SKILLFULLY performed on the EYES for film, cataract, strabismus or cross eyes.

Below are some of the many testimonials:

This is to certify that I, John B. Judson, was blind for over nine years, and tried all means of a cure, and many doctors, and all of no effect, and I spent all the means I had. Finally, I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr G. W. Brown, and started my case to him, and misfortune, he at once commenced to treat my eyes, and now I am well, and consider him to be the best physician in the world, and would send him to let suffering humanity know where they can be cured.

STATE OF OREGON, Marion County, ss.—Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22d day of November, 1866.

SETH R. HAMMER, Notary Public.
Residence, Salem, Feb 10, 1866.

This is to certify that my daughter was almost blind for over seven years, and was doctored by other physicians without obtaining any relief, when finally I took her to Dr. G. W. Brown, who examined her case, and at once began to give her treatment, and her sight has been entirely restored to her, and I advise all those who are suffering with diseases of the eyes know where they can obtain a cure. It has been three years since her eyes were cured, and they are yet sound.

THOMAS LIVINGSTON,
Deer Creek Precinct, Douglas county, Oregon.

Salem, July 23, 1866.

This is to certify that I was blind for four months, and almost blind for one year and a half, I tried several eye doctors but received no benefit; I had almost given my case up as hopeless when fortunately I heard of Dr. G. W. Brown, now of Salem. I was induced to try him; he performed a surgical operation on my eyes, and gave me treatment. I soon began to recover, and in a short time I was perfectly cured. I do this in justice to one who received me from a fate worse than death, and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar afflictions that they may know where they can get relief. It is now about eight months since my eyes were cured and they still remain good. I can see to read the finest print without difficulty, and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment and cure of Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from vitiation absorbed into the system? Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, and they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or friends who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self abuse. Whip him for his Mother

Let me whip him for his mother,
He is such a naughty boy!
He baby tried to smother,
And he's broken Emma's toy
Of the doll I gave to Ellen
He has melted off the nose,
And there really is no telling
To what length his mischief goes

Last night he put a cracker
'Neath his aunt Jemima's chair,
And he told me such a whacker
When I asked how it came there
Then who poor old Mrs. Peebles
Was just starting off by rail
He tied her two fat poodles
Fast together by the tail!

It really is quite shocking
How one's nerves he daily jars;
He puts pins in one's stockings
And Cayenne in one's cigars
You may guess that many another
Bovish tricks he's daily at,
So I'll whip him for his mother,
And a thrashin little brat.

The Parks of Colorado

[From the Washington Chronicle]

The San Luis park is readily entered at the extreme north through the Poncho Pass penetrating the Cordilliers from the Arkansas river This park, of illiptical form and immense dimensions, is enveloped between the Cordillera and Sierra Mimbres It has its extreme northern point between these two Sierras where they separate by a sharp angle and diverge—the former to the southeast, the latter to the southwest The latitude of the Poncho Pass is 38 degrees 30 minutes, the longitude 106 degrees It is 150 miles south west of Denver and 37 miles due west from Canyon City.

Emerging from the Poncho Pass, the waters begin to gather and form the San Luis river This flows to the south through a valley of great beauty, which rapidly widens to the right and left On the east flank, the Cordilliera ascends abruptly and continuously, without any foot-hills, to a sharp snowy summity on the west, foot-hills and secondary mountains, rising one over the other, entangle the whole space of the Sierra Mimbres

The Sawatch river has its sources on the inner (eastern) flank of the Sierra Mimbres, about sixty miles south of its angle of divergence from the Cordilliera, and by a course nearly east, converges toward the lower San Luis river. It enters upon the park by a similar valley These two valleys expand into one another around this apex of foot-hills, facing into the open park, whose centre is here occupied by the San Luis lake, into which the two rivers converge and discharge their waters

The San Luis lake, extending south from the gulf of the foot-hills, occupies the center of the park for sixty miles; forming a bowl without any outlet to its waters It is surrounded by immense saturated savannas of luxuriant grass. Its water surface expands over this savanna during the season of the melting snows on the Sierras and sinks when the season of evaporation returns From the flanks of the Cordilliera on the east, at intervals of six or eight miles asunder, and at very equal distances, fourteen streams other than the San Luis descend and converge into the San Luis lake The bolt of sloping plain, between the plains and the lake, traversed by so many parallel streams, bordered by meadows and groves of cottonwood trees, has from this feature the name "Los Alamos" It is sixty miles in length and twenty wide On the opposite (western) side, from the flank of the Sierra mambres, similar streams descend from the west into the lake known as the Sawatch, the Carnero and the Garita

The outlet streams thus converging into the San Luis lake are nineteen in number, The area thus occupied by this isolated lake and drained line it by its converging affluents, forming dis- the northern section of the park, and being one third of its whole surface, is classified as the general name of "Rincon."

Advancing onward to the south, along the west side of the plains, ten miles from the Garita the Rio del Norte river issues From its mountain source in the perpetual snows of the Sierra de San Juan, the local name given to this grand culmination of the Sierra Mimbres The Del Norte flows from its extreme source due west one hundred and fifty miles, and having reached the longitudinal middle of the park turns abruptly south, and traveling the park for per hundred and fifty miles passes beyond the limit in its course to the Gulf of Mexico All the streams descending from the enveloping Sierras (other than the Alamosos) converge into it their tributary waters. On the west come in succession the Pintada, the Rio del Gata, the Rio de la Vara, the Conejos, the San Antonio, and the Piedra. These streams, six or eight miles apart in parallel, equi distant, fed by the snows of the Sierra Mimbres, have abundant waters, very fertile area of land, and are all of the very highest order of beauty

Advancing again from the Rincon, at the east side edge of the plain along the base of the Cordilleras the prodigious conical mass of the Sierra Blanca protrudes like a vast hemisphere into the air and blocks the vision to the direct south The road describes the arc of a semi circle around its base for thirty miles, and reaches Fort Garland.

In the immediate vicinity of Fort Garland, the Huerfano, large streams, the Yuta, Sangre de Christo and the Trenchera, descend from the Cordillera, converge, unite a few miles west, and blending with those on the Trenchera, flow west fortwenty-five miles into the Rio del Norte The line of the Sierra Blanca, here again reveals it self pursuing its regular south southwest course and division Fourteen miles south is reached the town of San Luis, upon the Culebra river, Fifteen miles further is the town of Costilla, on the Costilla river; fifty miles further the town of Rito Colorado is reached; eighteen miles further is the Arroyo Hondo, (between these is the San Cristoval,) from the Arroyo Hondo to the Taos is fourteen miles, twenty miles beyond Taos is the mountain chain, whose circle toward the west forms the southern mountain barrier which incloses the San Luis park in that direction

The San Luis park is then an immense elliptical bowl, the bed of a primeval sea which has been drained, its bottom, as smooth as a water surface and concave, is 9,480 square miles in area It is water by thirty five mountain streams, which, leading from the encircling crest of snow, converge into them into the San Luis lake, the rest into the Rio del Norte An extraordinary symmetry of configuration is its prominent feature The scenery, everywhere sublime, has the ever changing variety of the kaleidoscope Entirely around the edge of the plain, and closing the insertion of the plain with the mountain chain, runs a smooth glacis, exactly resembling the sea beach which accompanies the conjunction of the land with the ocean From this beach rise continuously all around the horizon the great mountains, elevating their heads above the line of perpetual snow. On the eastern side, the escarpment or the Cordilleras rise rapidly, and is abrupt on the western side, the crest of the Sierra Mimbres is more remote, having the internal filled with ridges, lessening in altitude as they descend to the plain of the park This continuous shelving fault of the Sierras, completing a perfect amphitheatre, has a superficial area equal to that of the level plain which it envelops, and gives to the whole enclosure within the encircling band of snow an area of 18,000 square miles. At an elevation of five or six thousand feet above the plain a level line upon the mountain wall marks the cessation of arborescence, above which naked granite and snow alone are seen. To one who ascends to this elevation at any point the whole interior of this prodigious amphitheatre is scanned by the eye and swept in at a glance Aided by a glass the smallest objects scattered over the immense elliptical area beneath are discernible through the limpid, brilliant and translucent atmosphere Two facts impress themselves upon the sense the perfect symmetry of the configuration in nature, and the immense variety in the forms and splendor of the landscape The colors of the sky and atmosphere are intensely vivid and gorgeous; the dissolving tints of light and shade are forever changing, they are as infinite as the altering angles of the solar rays in his diurnal circuit.

The average elevation of the plain above the sea level is 8,400 feet The highest peaks have an altitude of 16,000 feet above the sea In the serrated rim of the park, as seen from the plain, projected against the canopy, are discernible seventeen peaks, at very equal distances from one another Each one differs from all the rest in some peculiarity of shape or position. Each one identifies itself by some striking beauty From the snows of each one descends some considerable river, as well within the peak as outward down the external mountain back

We recognize, therefore, in the San Luis park an immense elliptical basin enveloping the sources of the Rio Bravo del Norte It is isolated in the heart of the continent, twelve hundred miles from any sea. It is mortised, as it were, into the vast mountain bulk, where, rising gradually from the ocean, the highest altitude and amplitude of the continent is attained. This park spreads its plain from 26 deg. to 38 deg 10 min, and is bisected by the 106th meridian. Its greatest length is 210 miles, its greatest width is 100, its aggregate approximate area is 8,000 square miles

Such being the geographical position, altitude and peculiar unique configuration, these features suggest the inquiry into parallel peculiarities of meteorology, geology, physical structure, agricultural, mineralogy and the economy of labor

The American people have heretofore developed their social system exclusively on the borders of the two oceans, and within the maritime valleys of moderate altitude, having navigation and an atmosphere influenced by the sea To them, then, the contrast is complete in every feature, in those high and remote altitudes beyond the influence of the ocean, and specially continental

There is an identity between the Valley or Park of the City of Mexico and the San Luis park which ought to be here mentioned They are similar twin basins of the great plateau classifying together and alike in the physical structure of the continent Mexico is in latitude 20°, longitude 99°, and at 7,500 feet altitude The width of the continent is there 575 miles (from ocean to ocean) and the divergence of the Cordilleras 275 miles, which is here the width of the plateau At the 38° the continent expands to a width of 3,500 miles between the oceans the Cordilleras have diverged 1,200 miles asunder and the plateau has widened the same dimensions In harmony with the great expansion of the continent are all the details of its interior structure The "Park of the City of Mexico" is but one tenth in size and grandeur as compared and contrasted with the San Luis park Of identical anatomy, the former is a pigmy, the latter a giant. The similitude as component parts of the mountain anatomy is in all respects absolute as is also true of the other parks, which occupy longitudinally the centre of the State of Colorado.

A GOOD STORY TOLD BY GEN SHENCK —In the course of the debate in the House of Representatives, at Washington, on the proposed bridge over the Mississippi at Clinton, Iowa, General Schenck said

Mr Speaker With due thanks to my friend from Massachusetts (Mr Alley) for his courtesy in allowing me one minute of his time, I will endeavor to confine myself within that limit This I can the easier do because I have no speech to make on either side of this question But some gentlemen around me find it difficult to comprehend why a bill affecting the use or continuance of a bridge should give occasion to so much excited feeling and fierce discussion, and I think I can relate a little incident which may probably furnish the explanation

Mr Speaker I live in the Miami Valley, that loveliest and most fertile part of all Ohio We had a great freshet there last September I was away from home at the time making speeches—for it was during the late political canvass—for the benefit of Copperheads in another part of the State. I witnessed, therefore, none of the ravages of the great flood, except as I saw some of the effects and traces of it after my return But my neighbors described it to me, and of the damage to farms, crops, fences and other property, and related to me many interesting and some amusing incidents and personal adventures connected with a general calamity. A day or two after my return a friend said to me "By the way, Schenck, the old bridge over the Miami at Hamilton was carried off" "Is that so?" I asked "Well, besides the serious inconvenience of that loss it must have distressed our Butler county neighbors greatly, for to my certain knowledge that venerable structure has stood for fifty years, and was perhaps the oldest bridge in our valley" "You may well say that," remarked our friend "There was excitement enough in the crowd that stood and looked on at the old thing as it was lifted from the piers and swung round and floated down stream I was there, and saw tears almost come into Bill Beckett's eyes" (Mr. Beckett, by the way, Mr. Speaker, is as true, liberal and noble a man as ever lived, and will enjoy the story) "This is not to be wondered at," said I; "Beckett might well be affected He was born near by; has been familiar with the bridge always since his earliest boyhood, and must have a good many pleasant associations connected with it" "Associations, the devil," exclaimed my matter of fact neighbor, "why, Bill was one of the biggest stockholders in the bridge company!" [Great laughter.]

TWENTY YEARS OF CONJUGAL STRIFE —A case has just been before our Superior Court, says the Chicago Times, which arouses recollections of Jandyce and Jandyces. It relates to a quarrel which between the husband and wife, openly, twenty years ago, and secretly, perhaps, thirty In 1835 Oliver N Shannon married Harriet Burleh In 1840 they separated with mutual allegations of cruelty. Evidence was introduced showing that during the five years following both parties attempted to bring about a reconciliation, but their efforts were vain; they could not agree, it would seem, upon a basis of compromise In 1851 Shannon sued for a divorce on the ground of desertion. His wife defended the action and triumphed In 1853 he made a similar attempt, but with no better success Mrs. Shannon also tried her hand at divorce-getting, but she, too, failed, and it seemed as if the Fates had decreed that this ill assorted couple should be forever manacled together, as a punishment for their prolonged quarrels In 1856 Shannon being as he alleges, a citizen of the State of Indiana, famous for the facilities which it used to afford for the dissolution of unfortunate connubial compacts, procured a divorce In February, 1866, Caroline Burlen brought an action against Shannon for the sum of three thousand dollars, which, she averred, was due her for board of the defendant's wife from 1836 to the date of the writ. On the trial the other day, the defendant alleged that the suit was a groundless and vexatious one, and was brought by the plaintiff simply to annoy and put him to cost The question of the law was whether the Indiana divorce was valid; the wife, who was evidently leagued with the sister to "bleed" the unhappy Shannon, declaring that it was fraudulent and void, and that she never lived with her husband outside the State The Court took the question under advisement and ruled that the Indiana divorce, granted in 1856, was a bar to the plaintiff's recovery for board as charged by her from 1836 to 1856, and directed the jury to return a verdict for the defendant The plaintiff, however, is not discouraged, and carries the case up to the Supreme Court

A CHINESE WEDDING —The Nevada Transcript of March 10th has the annexed notice of a Chinese wedding in its town

Sam, the Celestial washman of the National Exchange, was married on Thursday evening, by Justice Palmer, in true American style Sam had a rough time of it, an attempt having been made to rob him of his bride The maiden was taken out of the hands of her captors and lodged in the calaboose Sam, who is somewhat American ized, got the Justice and arranged for the ceremony to take place in the wash house at the hotel. The guests assembled, and the maiden, arrayed in dark blue, her hair done up in tallow, and with bracelets upon her ankles, with the groom came forward. When the ceremony commenced, Sam supposed it was a case of swearing, and he raised his right hand, as is common in Court When the bride was asked if she would "have this man," etc, she replied in trembling accents, "Me heap like'Sam, him wolly good Chinaman" The ceremony concluded Sam ordered wine, and the party had a jolly time After the wedding Sam seemed very happy, and remarked "All a same as Mellican, heap ketchum wife all e time" In this he was mistaken, for yesterday morning his enemies had him arrested upon the charge of larceny, which is no doubt trumped up for the purpose of harassing the poor fellow

A QUEER NOTICE READ IN CHURCH —A minister of an Eastern village found, one Sabbath, a notice which had been cut out from a Saturday's newspaper, and placed in his desk for him to read to his congregation But by a strange coincidence, there happened to be printed on the other side of the same slip of paper the advertisement of a certain shoe dealer, a prominent member of his church, and without turning the paper to read the other side, as the advertisement met his eye, the good man concluded it was expected he would read it, and accordingly, to the surprise of the entire congregation, announced, at the usual time for reading notices—

"George S Brown keeps constantly on hand, and for sale, wholesale or retail, a large and well selected stock of boots and shoes, which he will sell for cash, at No 15 Pine street"

And he added—

"Brother Brown is a worthy member of the church and society, and deserving the patronage of the congregation"

The consternation of Brother Brown may be better imagined than described

OILING A VENTRILOQUIST —We find a bit of quiet fun in an English paper "A gentleman going down the river on a steamer, the engine of which was on deck, he sauntered out to see the workings of the machinery Near him stood a man apparently bent on the same object In a few moments a squeaking noise was heard on the opposite side of the engine Seizing the oil can —a gigantic one by the way—the engineer sought out the dry spot, and to prevent further noise of that kind, liberally applied the contents of the can to every joint All went on well for a while, when the squeaking was heard in another direction The oiling process was repeated and quiet restored, but as the engineer was coming quietly toward the spot occupied by the gentleman and the stranger he heard another squeak This time he detected the true cause of the difficulty The stranger was a ventriloquist

Walking straight up behind him, he seized the astonished joker by the nape of the neck and emptied the contents of the can down his back 'There,' said he, 'I don't believe the old engine will squeak again'"

Fountain of Life!
GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER!

IN EVERY PROGRESSIVE SCIENCE PERIODS ARrive when a new direction is imparted to its course Accordingly as one from years of investigation and light will it changes the whole aspect of the science. The present is an epoch of this kind and this Great Remedy now offered to the public in connection with the theory on which it is founded is destined to effect an entire revolution in the treatment of the diseases of

SCROFULA AND KING'S EVIL!

by eradicating the diseases entirely from the blood. The FOUNTAIN OF LIFE is composed entirely of vegetable extracts it contains no Mercury or other mineral substance

The Proprietor on a Discovery of this Sovereign Remedy CHALLENGES THE WORLD to furnish anything from the days of Methusalem down to the present time, in the arcana of Medical science, which can vie with or excel the intrinsic properties of this Great Blood Purifier Its value has been tested with the most perfect effect in the most obstinate cases of Scrofula, that baffled the skill of the most eminent physicians in the world No matter what form the dreadful disease of SCROFULA and KING'S EVIL may have assumed, it can in no way be more safely and certainly arrested in its progress than by HENLEY'S GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER Thousands have been snatched into the graves, who had they made a timely use of the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE, might now be enjoying the blessings of life and health It requires an article of real merit and intrinsic value to sustain itself During the stern ordeal of public experiment the FOUNTAIN OF LIFE has at all times, and not been found wanting

☞ DR HENLEY guarantees to CURE any case of SCROFULA or KING'S EVIL in the world and eradicate the disease at first from the system or no charge made —provided they will secure him his pay when they are cured

FOR REFERENCE

I would refer you to L L Lock of Portland Oregon, and hundreds of others as to what a miraculous effect it has had in first time in cases that had baffled the skill of physicians for years

DISEASES OF THE EYES

to call at his office and be at once restored Surgical operations SKILLFULLY performed on the EYES for Blind, cataract strabismus or cross eyes

Below are some of the many testimonials

This is to certify that I, John B Jodwan was blind for over nine years, and I tried all means of a cure, and many doctors and all of no effect, and I heard all the means of a cure, and finally, I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr G W Brown, and stated my case to him and misfortune, he at once commenced to treat my eyes and now I can well, and recommend all those that are suffering with diseases of the eyes to call on Dr G W Brown The reason why I do this is to let suffering humanity know where they can be cured

SATURDAY Feb 10, 1866.

This is to certify that my daughter was almost blind for over seven years and was doctored by other physicians without obtaining any relief when finally I took her to Dr G W Brown who very soon cured her and once began to give her treatment, and her sight has been perfectly restored I do this to let those who are suffering with diseases of the eyes know where they can obtain a cure It has been three years since her eyes were cured, and they are well sound

THOMAS LIVINGSTON,
Deer Creek Precinct, Douglas county, Oregon
SALEM, July 21, 1866.

This is to certify that I was blind for over four months, and almost blind for one year and a half, I tried several eye doctors but received no benefit, I had almost given my case up as hopeless when fortunately I heard of Dr G W Brown, now of Salem I was induced to call on him; he performed a surgical operation on my eyes and gave me treatment I soon began to recover, and in a short time I was perfectly cured I do this in justice to one who rescued me from a fate worse than death, and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar afflictions that they may know where they can be cured I have spent eight months since my eyes were cured and they still remain good I can see to read the finest print without difficulty, and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed in the system at their pallid, emaciated disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it is too late. Read them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the misfortune of their friends, to be aware of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from European and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of these charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emission the consequence of self-abuse This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of horrid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes pain in the head, ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, foted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, somnambulism and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter and thus save a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co
